

What Is Full Color Printed Garments ?

Full Color printing is a process in which the ink of a design is infused directly into the garment's fibers to give it that soft feel. This process offers us the ability to not only offer your designs with no minimum order, but also the printing of full color photographs or designs on your fabric items.

This process does have its limitations. To ensure that you are pleased with the final products you receive, you will notice that full color products are available only in light colors, namely white, natural, grey and light colors.

If these don't fit your needs, then the standard screen printing, which is laying ink on top of the material, is probably the best route for you. We also offer screen printing services.
